

Lube Skids

Equipment - Design - Fabrication

Lube skids provide an effective way of transferring fluids to the application.

Skids can be designed for in plant use or for use on trucks or trailers for outside use.

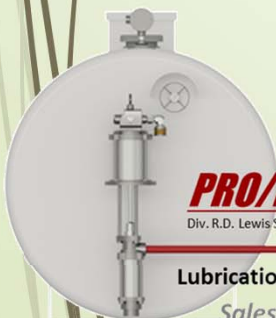

Lube skids are custom designed to meet the specific requirements of the application.

Multiple products can be transferred and dispensed.

Evacuation systems are available to remove old fluid from machinery and equipment.

A diversity of pump types, hose reels, dispensing equipment and accessories are available to meet the requirements of most applications.

Contact us with your application. We will be happy to sketch up a system for you.
